

Vatsal Sharma — six monogram concepts

Letters from the name, combined with a bird. Bone on Slate, shown at 640px.

V-Flock

The V is the lead bird. Two smaller chevrons trail behind it, so the letter and the flock are the same three strokes.

mark-1-vflock-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png

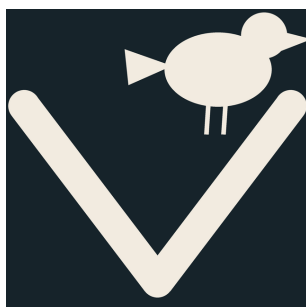

Swan-Neck S

The S stretches into a heron's neck, head and beak. A V rides the body as a folded wing. Reads VS and reads bird at once.

mark-2-swan-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png

Perched V

A heavy V becomes the branch and a bird stands on its right arm. Most literal of the six: you see a V and you see a bird.

mark-3-perched-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png

Winged VS

V is the spread wings, S is the body and tail. One bird, two letters, no text.

mark-4-wingedvs-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png

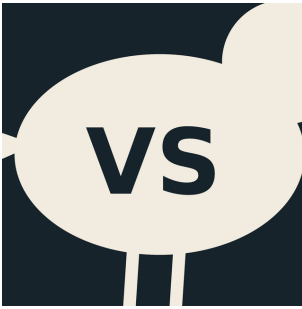

VS + Flyway

Serif VS monogram with the flyway trail streaming off the S as tail feathers. Ties straight into the glyph already built.

mark-5-vstail-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png

Negative Space

Bird silhouette with VS knocked out of the body. Boldest at large sizes, weakest at avatar size.

mark-6-negative-profile-640.png · -white.png · -black.png · -32px.png